“ During the evenings when Jack and I taught night classes on the campus of South Georgia State College in Douglas, I always enjoyed walking past Laird Auditorium in Collins Hall as I made my way towards my office. Jack would be teaching a history course, and I would sometimes stop for a moment to enjoy his lecture and to hear his students sometimes laugh or ask him questions to which he always responded with a wealth of knowledge and with interesting anecdotes. Jack was a fine teacher, a perfect gentleman, and a quintessential professor. I will miss him dearly.

“ So sorry to hear of Jacks passing. Worked with him at MCC and enjoyed it tremendously. Got to know him as a kid through my dads gas station in Maysville, Service City. A great dry sense of humor and a good man. Again so sorry.
