“ I remember when we would be at grandmas you always would wash your hands and face before you eat if you didn't get all the. Dirt off your face you better get back in there before she would grab you by the ear and head you right back in the bathroom sometime it would feel like it would rub the pure skin off. Lol just imagine now you picking up roots on new ground in ole black dusty dirt. They are so many memories but I'll let somebody else at it now. Like I said it's not goodbye but we'll see you later. Love you grandma. Chuckie

Grandma had a spatula that was partially broken, which made it have a little more action when she spanked me with it. But never, at any time did I doubt that if anyone ever loved me, it was her.
